

New Wings

*Images flow through my head his face forever in my mind
He was a truly great man caring, gentle and kind.*

How bravely this man fought against the illness inside Push through all the hurt strength from his family beside

*He tried to win this battle his body weak and sore
He fought like a true hero till he couldn't fight anymore*

*A piece of me died today when I got the call
My heart is so empty and my tears forever fall*

*Remembering the day I watched as he married his best friend
I know their love was true side by side till the end*

*Their love will never die but her heart forever broken
His love sent to her in words that are unspoken*

His pain is now done his hurting is through His love for his kids will forever ring true

*A light has dimmed in our world an emptiness we feel
His absence breaks our hearts but his presence is so real*

*He has taken his place up high amongst those who passed before
He has left the bonds of earth and on new wings he will soar*
